This booklet is based on the Associated Press Stylebook (2006 ed.). It is intended as a guide to common PR Team style and grammar situations, not as a comprehensive list of all possible issues. When in doubt, follow AP.
Abbreviations and Acronyms

Keep the use of abbreviations and acronyms to a minimum to avoid “alphabet soup” that can confuse the reader.

- Do not use an abbreviation or acronym, especially an unfamiliar one, just to save a few words of text.
- Do not put a group’s abbreviation in parentheses immediately following the first mention of the group.

The House of Delegates issued a report on dietetics education.
Not: The House of Delegates (HOD) issued a report on dietetics education.

On first reference, spell out an organization’s name and use its abbreviation on second reference.

- National Institutes of Health/NIH
- Food and Drug Administration/FDA
- U.S. Department of Agriculture/USDA

Extremely common abbreviations that virtually everyone recognizes do not need to be spelled out, even on first reference.

- AIDS, CNN, FBI

No periods between letters in an abbreviation or acronym.

Academic Departments and Titles

- Do not capitalize academic departments unless they are proper nouns.
  - French department (or department of French)
  - But: dietetics department (or department of dietetics)

Capitalize a professional or academic title such as president, chair, speaker or professor only when it immediately precedes the person’s name.

- ADA President Jane Smith
- Associate Professor Mary Johnson
- Jane Smith is the president of the American Dietetic Association
- Mary Johnson is an associate professor of nutrition

Time Element

To help the reader understand what is happening when, keep the subject, verb and time element as close together as possible, especially if there is more than one action taking place in the sentence. Make it plain which noun the verb refers to.

- The city council ruled Tuesday the highway billboard must come down.
- The police Tuesday caught five bank robbers.

If needed to avoid implying the time is the subject of the verb, move the time element to before the verb.

- The city council ruled the highway billboard must come down Tuesday.
- The police caught Tuesday five bank robbers.

Under Way

- Two words.
  - Registration for the workshop is now under way.

Verbs

Whenever possible, use verbs conveying action. Avoid the passive voice.

- We made mistakes. Not: Mistakes were made.
- They attended the concert. Not: The concert was attended by them.

Web

In Internet usage, it is always capitalized, as in Web page. This includes new words like Webinar.

- Web site is two words. Do not capitalize site.

In the phrase World Wide Web, all words are capitalized.
Teams
When referring to departments at ADA, capitalize Team and spell out all words, such as and (do not use &).
  Careers and Student Services Team
  Scientific Affairs and Research Team

Telephone Numbers
Put a slash between area code and prefix and a dash between prefix and suffix. Abbreviate “extension” as “ext.” and precede it with a comma.
  800/877-1600, ext. 1234

Do not use a 1 before the area code.

That
Avoid overuse of “that” as a conjunction. “That” can usually be deleted with no loss of understanding and can save words as well.
  These are the books I need for the class.
  Instead of These are the books that I need for the class.

Time
Put periods and no spaces between letters in a.m. and p.m. and in lower case.
  Not am, pm, AM or PM.

To avoid confusion, do not use 12 a.m. or 12 p.m.
  Use midnight and noon.

Put a space between the numeral and the a.m. or p.m.
  10 a.m.
  11:15 p.m.

At the top of the hour, do not use :00.
  6 a.m.
  8 p.m.

Spell out time zones, enclose in parentheses, capitalize “Time.”
  The session will begin at 6 p.m. (Central Time).

To make it easier to read, use as few words of the person’s title before his or her name as possible. Avoid constructions like:
  Associate Professor of Nutrition and Chair of the Department of Dietetics at the University of Illinois Mary Johnson.

Much of that information can go after the person’s name and be lower-cased.

Do not capitalize casual or temporary positions, such as the meeting’s chairman or the group’s leader.
See also Credentials.

ADA Abbreviation
Spell out the entire name of the American Dietetic Association on any first reference.
  Includes headlines

Abbreviate the name of the Association as “ADA.”
  Do not use the ADA

The same rule applies for other ADA units such as House of Delegates.
  HOD, not the HOD

ADA Members
In keeping with the recommendations of the Strategy and Terminology Work Group that were adopted by the Board of Directors:
  The term “ADA members” should be used in both public and member communications when the focus is on multiple members of the Association or its entire membership.

See also Dietetics Professional, Dietetic Technician, Registered and Registered Dietitian.

ADA Times
The publication’s name is always italicized.

Do not abbreviate the name on second reference, such as The Times.
Address
ADA’s official address:
American Dietetic Association
120 South Riverside Plaza, Suite 2000
Chicago, IL 60606-6995
e-mail address (optional)
www.eatright.org

Spell out South and Plaza in ADA’s mailing address.

All other addresses:
Contact name
Company name
Suite or apartment number
Street number, street name, abbreviation (St., Ave., Blvd.)
City, state, postal code

Abbreviate Street (or Avenue, Road…) when used in an address, but spell it out and capitalize it when not referring to a specific address.
The name of the street: Michigan Avenue.
In an address: 900 N. Michigan Ave.

See also State Names.

Ampersand
Use only as part of a proper title or name.
Food & Nutrition Conference & Expo

And/or
Avoid using except in a direct quotation. Pick one that is appropriate for the sentence.

Association
When referring to ADA, always capitalize the word Association.
All ADA members should be proud of their Association and its achievements.

The Association is OK as second reference to ADA. This style does not apply to any other association.

Sentence Spacing
Sentences should have one space between the period and the first letter of the next sentence.

Spelling
Use whichever spelling of a word is listed first in a commonly used dictionary.

Spell a person’s or organization’s name however they do.

State Names
If it stands alone in a sentence, use the state’s full name.

Use the two-letter Postal Service state abbreviations only in a formal mailing address.

If the state name is to be abbreviated, unless it is part of a mailing address, use the following abbreviations, with periods, in all cases. Do not leave spaces between letters or periods:

Alabama (Ala.)
Arizona (Ariz.)
Arkansas (Ark.)
California (Calif.)
Colorado (Colo.)
Connecticut (Conn.)
District of Columbia (D.C.)
Delaware (Del.)
Florida (Fla.)
Georgia (Ga.)
Illinois (Ill.)
Indiana (Ind.)
Iowa (Ia.)
Kansas (Kan.)
Kentucky (Ky.)
Louisiana (La.)
Maine (Me.)
Maryland (Md.)
Massachusetts (Mass.)
Michigan (Mich.)
Minnesota (Minn.)
Mississippi (Miss.)
Missouri (Mo.)
Montana (Mont.)
Nebraska (Neb.)
Nevada (Nev.)
New Hampshire (N.H.)
New Jersey (N.J.)
New Mexico (N.M.)
New York (N.Y.)
North Carolina (N.C.)
North Dakota (N.D.)
New Hampshire (N.H.)
Ohio (Ohio)
Oklahoma (Okla.)
Oregon (Ore.)
Pennsylvania (Pa.)
Rhode Island (R.I.)
South Carolina (S.C.)
South Dakota (S.D.)
Tennessee (Tenn.)
Texas (Tex.)
Utah (Ut.)
Vermont (Vt.)
Virginia (Va.)
Washington (Wash.)
West Virginia (W.Va.)
Wyoming (Wyo.)

Exceptions: The following states names are never abbreviated except in formal mailing addresses:
Alaska, Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Maine, Ohio, Texas, Utah

In other words, do not abbreviate any state name with five or fewer letters, plus Alaska and Hawaii.

If the state name (or D.C.) is used in the middle of a sentence, put commas on either side.
Many people visit the zoo in San Diego, Calif., each year
The average temperature in Washington, D.C., is about 65 degrees.
Registered Dietitian

Dietitian is spelled with a “t.”

Some dictionaries list dietician as an accepted alternate, but ADA officially adopted dietitian in 1930 as its preferred spelling.

Use the complete credential registered dietitian, not dietitian. Exceptions include a proper name or job title, such as clinical dietitian or Consultant Dietitians in Health Care Facilities dietetic practice group.

On second reference, RD is acceptable.

Bulleted Lists

No punctuation after items in a list, except put a period after the last bullet.

Exception: Punctuate complete sentences appropriately.

Calories

Spell out the word in text. Do not use the scientific abbreviation kcal except in a quote.

a 2,000-calorie diet

Not: a 2,000-kcal diet

Note: In nutrition science, energy often is synonymous with calories. Since that can be confusing to the average person – in part because concepts like “increased energy” are usually considered good things – use the word calories instead of energy whenever possible.

See also Science Terminology and Jargon below.

Capitalization

In sentences, capitalize as few words as possible other than proper nouns (people, places, organizations).

See also Credentials, Headlines and People and Persons.

Commas

As a general rule, use commas sparingly.

Do not use a comma prior to the last item in a list.

The colors of the flag are red, white and blue.

AP lists some exceptions to this general rule.

Use a comma after a dependent clause (generally includes a preposition or prepositional phrase).

Most of the time, people should eat more vegetables.

In other words, nutrition is important.

However, many people don’t know that.

See AP for more detailed discussion of comma usage.

Science Terminology and Jargon

Use language that is appropriate for the reading or listening audience.

Especially for a general audience, keep use of scientific terms and jargon to a minimum.

Avoid nutrition science terms like efficacy, etiology, paradigm or parenteral. Most people do not know what they mean.

If you need to use a science term, explain or define any that an average non-scientist probably would not understand.

Her lecture focused on the etiology, or the causes and origins, of the disease.

Don’t go overboard with explanations. The fact that you don’t know what something means doesn’t mean no one does. This is a real-life example:

The Louvre, a famous museum in France.
Company Names
Do not put a comma before words like Inc. or Co.
Example: Tropicana Products Inc.

Credentials
In internal (member) publications such as ADA Times or a list of candidates, give a person’s academic credentials together with his or her name on first reference.
Example: Elaine Anderson, MBA, RD, CDN, is ADA’s 2008-09 speaker-elect.

In external (public) communications such as press releases, ADA’s and AP’s style is to not follow names with a list of initials but instead to convey the person’s credentials or expertise in words.
Example: The article quotes registered dietitian and ADA spokesperson Lona Sandon.

Academic and professional credentials have no punctuation.
Example: PhD, MS, RD
Not: Ph.D., M.S., R.D.

List credentials in the following order:
1. Permanent academic degrees in decreasing order: MD, PhD, MS
2. Professional credentials that must be maintained
   a. National credentials: RD, RN
   b. State credentials: LD, LN
3. Organizational certifications or fellowships: FADA, FASP

Don’t list bachelor’s or associate degrees unless they are relevant to the story.

When using a person’s academic credentials in a sentence, the last credential must be followed by a comma, unless the credential comes at the end of the sentence.
Example: Jane Smith, MS, RD, LD, is the president-elect of the American Dietetic Association.

Plural
Do not use apostrophes when making an abbreviation or acronym into a plural.
Example: DPGs, RDs

A corporation, association or other organization is a singular noun.
Example: Thanks to Quaker Oats Co. for its sponsorship of the session (not “their”).

The plural of president-elect is presidents-elect, not president-elects. The same goes for chairs-elect and similar titles.

See the dictionary for rules regarding plurals of specific words.

Possessives
For singular nouns not ending in s, add “s” (mom’s recipe).

For singular nouns ending in s, add “s” only if the next word does not begin with an “s” (business’s goals; business’ strengths).

For plural nouns not ending in s, add “s” (children’s nutrition).

For plural nouns ending in “s,” add an apostrophe (teenagers’ fitness).

Quotation Marks
Font permitting, use “curly” quotation marks, not “straight.”
Tip: In Word, use the search and replace function. Search for quotation mark, replace with quotation mark. Same for apostrophes.

Remember to open and close all quotations.

If a quotation that ends a paragraph is a complete sentence, do not close the quote before starting a new paragraph.

But: If a paragraph ends with a quotation that is not a complete sentence and the next paragraph will continue the quote, close the partial quote before starting a new paragraph and open the new paragraph with a quotation mark.
Use commas with numbers of four digits and up.

- 1,000-calorie diet
- 25,347 members

Numbers at the beginning of a sentence are always spelled out.

- Two cups of sugar should be enough for the recipe.
- One thousand people attended the conference.

Nutrition/Nutritional

Nutrition can be a noun or an adjective.

Used as an adjective, nutrition means “relating to science or professional practices of nutrition.”

- Nutrition analysis, assessment, awareness, care, knowledge, management, needs, practices, principles.

Nutritional means “conveying nutrients” or “nutrient-related.”

- Nutritional adequacy, benefits, consequences, factors, impact, progress, quality, risk, value.

Online

One word.

People and Persons

The plural of person is people.

Do not use persons except in a quotation, title or formal name.

- For example: ADA has a position statement on Nutrition intervention in the care of persons with human immunodeficiency virus infection.

The plural of the registered dietitians who speak to the media on behalf of ADA is spokespeople, not spokespersons.

Do not use chairperson unless it is the office’s formal title.

Percent

Spell out the word in text.

OK to use % in a chart or graph.

---

Dates

Spell out complete names of days and months.

- Do not write the year if the reference is to the current year.
  - Assuming this is written in 2008: The registration deadline is April 26. The book will be published in April.

- Use commas both before and after the year in a sentence.
  - The application deadline of July 1, 2009, has been extended.
  - Tuesday, October 8, 2002, was a day she would never forget.

- Exception to the previous rule: Do not use commas when writing only the month and year.
  - *The July 2001 Journal of the American Dietetic Association contained an article on predictors of self-initiated dietary change.*

- Numerals stand alone in dates.
  - June 23, not June 23rd.
  - September 1, not September 1st.

- Use words instead of punctuation marks in sentences.
  - She served on ADA’s Board of Directors from 1987 to 1989.
  - Not: She served from 1987-89.

Dietetics Professional

In general, do not use.

- ADA’s style is to use registered dietitian, dietetic technician, registered and ADA member as appropriate, to describe people who hold these credentials and work in the dietetics field.

- In keeping with the recommendations of the Strategy and Terminology Work Group that were adopted by the Board of Directors:
  - The term dietetics professionals should be limited in all ADA communications, internal and external, because it adds to marketplace confusion and undermines the value of CDR credentials. The term dietetics professionals should be used only as second-reference descriptor.

See also ADA Members, Dietetic Technician, Registered and Registered Dietitian.
Dietetic Technician, Registered
Use the complete credential, not just dietetic technician, except if it appears in a quote, job title, organization’s name or other proper name.

The credential takes a comma after technician but not after registered. Dietetic technicians, registered make up 4 percent of ADA’s membership.

On second reference, DTR is acceptable.

In keeping with the recommendations of the Strategy and Terminology Work Group that were adopted by the Board of Directors:

The term dietetic technician, registered should be used when spotlighting the DTR in internal and external communications. The Dietetics Education Task Force Report and Recommendations released in February 2005 noted that by definition, “technician” refers to a person who has been trained at the technical level requiring less than a baccalaureate degree. An RD with the minimum of a baccalaureate degree is considered the professional. The DTR should be highlighted as technical support personnel. This is consistent with definitions of a technician and professional in other disciplines. That the DTR works under the supervision of the RD was approved by the Board of Directors in 2003 and was reaffirmed through acceptance of the ADA Scope of Dietetics Practice Framework.

Doctor
Refer to someone as doctor or Dr, only if 1) the person is a medical doctor (includes dentist, veterinarian and osteopath) and 2) it is relevant to the story.

Do not call people with PhD, EdD, DrPH or other degrees doctor.

Journal of the American Dietetic Association
Always italicized.

Spell out the entire name on first reference.

Journal is OK as an abbreviation or second reference.

Use J Am Diet Assoc in a formal citation like a footnote.

Do not use JADA.

Junior/Jr.
No comma before Jr. following a person’s name.

The same goes for Roman numerals, such as John Jones III.

Lifelong
One word, as in lifelong learning.

Months
Spell out full names of months in text.

Mr., Mrs., Miss, Ms.
Do not use unless it is relevant to the story or the reference would otherwise be unclear.

Mrs. Roberts died in 1993 and Mr. Roberts made a $100,000 gift to the ADA Foundation the next year in his wife’s memory.

Numbers and Numerals
Express whole numbers zero through nine in words.

Use numerals for 10 and over.

Exceptions: Always use numerals for the following:

- Ages
- Percentages
- Lists of daily values or nutrition information, like recipes (4 cups)
Unless the word would be unclear or hard to read (see above), do not use a hyphen with a prefix if the next word starts with a consonant.

_predetermined, postpartum_

When deciding whether to hyphenate a new or unfamiliar word containing a prefix, think of more common words that use the prefix and spell it the same way.

Spell _teleseminar_ as one word, as in _television_.

Not: _tele-seminar_

Compound modifiers using the word _well_ always take a hyphen.

_The American Dietetic Association serves the public by promoting optimal health and well-being._

Note: _Well-being_ is always spelled with a hyphen whether it is used as a modifier or a noun.

When alphabetizing a list that includes hyphenated last names, list the person under the letter of the first hyphenated name.

_Janet White-Green_ is listed under “W.”

_Michelle Brown Silver_ is listed under “S.”

Internet

The word is always capitalized.

Italics

Italize proper titles of books, newspapers, journals, magazines, movies, software, films, television programs, songs, speeches and works of art.

Articles and chapters appearing in books and periodicals are placed in quotation marks.

When a phrase that should be in italics appears in text that is already italicized, remove the italics from the phrase.

_She asked when the next issue of ADA Times would be published._

See also Quotation Marks.

Elected Officials

ADA’s style for elected officials’ titles varies slightly from AP:

2. Abbreviate United States Senator as U.S. Sen.
3. Use the person’s name, followed in parentheses by one letter representing the official’s political party, followed by a period. Use a dash – with no spaces before or after the dash – followed by the person’s state, using the abbreviations under State Names below.
4. Then close the parentheses.

Example: _The sponsor of the bill, U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin (D.-Ill.), said the legislation would give millions of people access to health insurance._

E-mail

The word always uses a hyphen.

Etc.

Avoid using.

Ethnic Groups

Do not capitalize terms like _black_ or _white_ when writing about ethnicity except in a formal title such as a book or an organization’s name.

AP prefers _black_ to _African-American_.

Use _African-American_ only in quotes or if that is how a person or group describes themselves.

_African-American_ is always hyphenated.

AP prefers _Hispanic_ to _Latino_, but says _Latino_ “is acceptable for Hispanics who prefer that term.”

When possible and appropriate, use a more specific identification, such as _Cuban, Mexican-American_ or _Puerto Rican_.

Other than _African-American_, the names of ethnic groups or locations used as nouns are _not hyphenated_ if the sentence refers to a geographic location or people who come from that place.

_Latin America, Latin American_ because there is such a place as Latin America.

But: _Japanese-American_ because there is no such place as Japanese America.
When used as an adjective, hyphenate all groups’ names.
Five Asian-American organizations participated in the parade.

Spell and punctuate proper names (such as organizations) however they do.

Food & Nutrition Conference & Expo

Use ampersands (&), not the word and.

Spell out Food & Nutrition Conference & Expo on first reference.

The abbreviation FNCE is acceptable on second reference in ADA member communications but it should be avoided in writing for the public, since most people do not know what FNCE means.

Expo is not short for anything, such as Exposition.

Foodservice

One word.

Headlines

Should be written in title case, capitalizing the first letters of all words in the headline, except:

- Articles (a, an, the...)
- Coordinating conjunctions (and, but, or, nor, for, so...) when used as conjunctions. In the headline Kid to Joe Jackson: Say It Ain’t So,”So” would be capitalized since it is not used as a conjunction.
- Prepositions except if they are part of a verb.

Do Performance Foods Measure Up?
ADA Moves Forward

Capitalize articles, conjunctions and prepositions if they are part of a proper name or if they are the first word of the headline.

Health Care/Health-care/Healthcare

When used as a noun, health care is two words.

When used as an adjective, health-care takes a hyphen.

Do not use healthcare as one word, except in a proper name.

He/She

Do not use slashes, such as he/she, him/her, his/hers.
Write it out: "he or she."

Try to avoid using he or she very often and especially avoid using it more than once in a sentence.

Do not use s/he.

Hyphens

Avoid when possible, especially with nouns. Most compound nouns should be expressed either as one word or two. Check a dictionary or AP.

Examples: fund raiser, decision maker.

Two nouns or two adjectives used as an adjective (an adjectival phrase) should be hyphenated.

- the blue-green sea
- the once-crowded exhibit hall

Modifying phrases that begin with adverbs (an adverbial phrase) do not take hyphens.

- an especially tall building
- scientifically correct
- morbidly obese

Use a hyphen with a prefix only when:

- Not using a hyphen would make the word unclear or hard to read.
  - re-evaluate, co-president
- The prefix ends in a vowel and the next word starts with a vowel.
  - multi-ethnic, pre-emptive
- Not using a hyphen would change the meaning of the word.
  - recover/re-cover, resign/re-sign
- The next word is capitalized.
  - pre-Renaissance art
- Joining doubled prefixes.
  - sub-subparagraph
